State Department Control (ITAR) Overview

Whether you are a large defense supplier or small component manufacturer supplying to military applications, the ITAR is important to understand. DL Exports experience in assisting small to large clients in the ITAR, provides you with a real world overview in dealing with this complex set of rules by the U.S. Department of State.

Objectives

- Understanding when the ITAR applies
- Controlled Items and Activities: Hardware, Technical data and Defense Services
- Getting registered, assigning your Empowered Officials
- D-Trade Overview
- Setting up D-Trade System on your company's PC
- Using D-Trade to Apply for Licenses, (i.e.: DSP-5, TAA, MLA)
- Applying for a Commodity Jurisdiction
- Utilizing Exemptions

Building Technology Control Plans

Compliance with State Department Control (ITAR) for military contractors and exporters:

A follow-on class to the ITAR Overview. Technology Control Plans (TCP) are the basis for controlling ITAR technology. Building an effective TCP will ensure compliance with the ITAR in the most efficient manner possible for your business.

Objectives

- Employing foreign nationals in ITAR and EAR controlled projects
- Building an effective TCP to meet ITAR and EAR requirements:
 - Facility Controls
 - Data Controls
 - HR Controls
- Export clearance under the ITAR
- Auditing your licenses and TCP
